

When it comes to prescribing hyaluronic acid (HA), skip the insurance hassle.

Direct Purchase Program

The Direct Purchase Program makes ordering HA injections simple.

Health care practitioners, not private payors, should choose which HA to use to treat osteoarthritis knee pain unresolved by non-pharmacologic therapy and simple analgesics. High deductibles, co-insurance stipulations and plan exceptions can present barriers to a patient's ability to access HA and an administrative headache for practices to manage. When you write a prescription using the Direct Purchase Program, you retain control of the treatment and your patient retains control of the cost.

The Direct Purchase Program

It's Simple:

- No benefit investigation needed
- No denied claims to appeal
- No reimbursements to collect
- No prior authorization needed

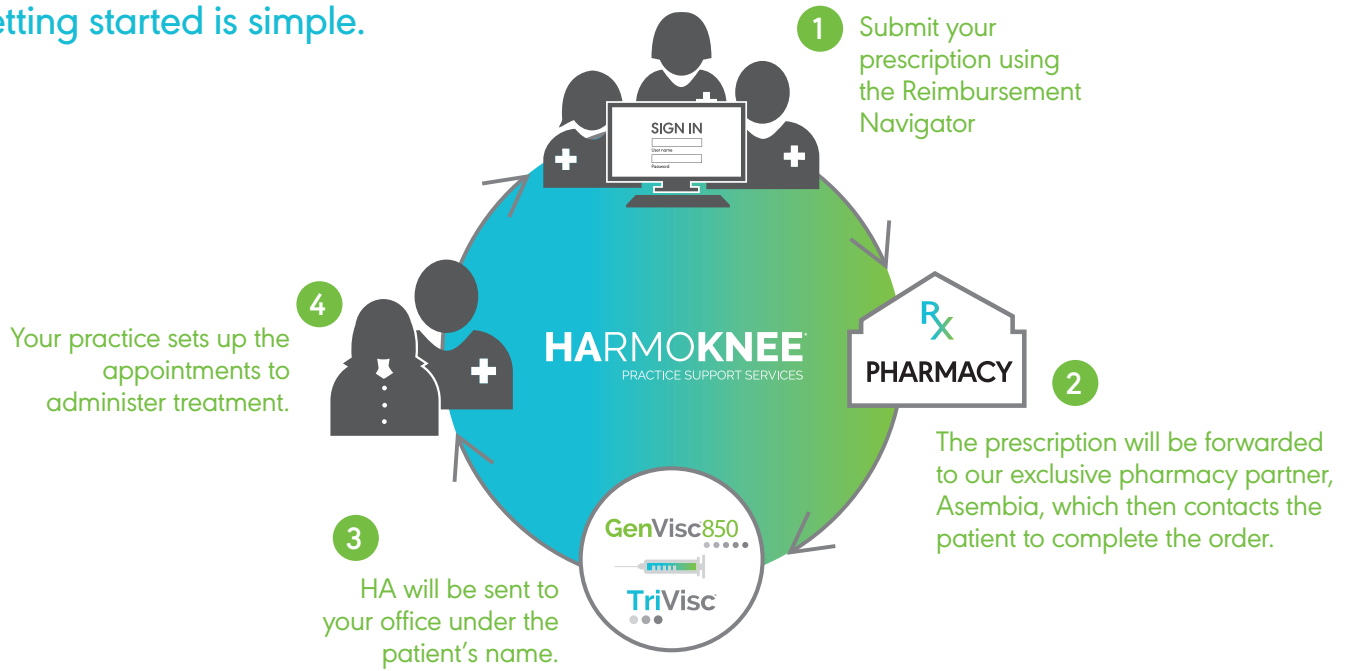

It's Cost-Effective:

- No risk of financial loss due to denied claims
- No upfront cash needed to manage inventory
- Practice bills insurance for administration of injection
- Patient pays a reduced cost per syringe
